sville, escaped with minor cuts of the face and head when he lost control of his car and it upset near the intersection of the New Waterford road and Route 7 at 4:30 p. m. yesterday.The state patrol reported that Abdalla's car skidded when he attempted to avoid hitting another machine, operated by Leonard R.
Bunt, 30, of Sebring, who was attempting to make a left turn into the New Waterford road. The cars did not collide.Charles Enderle, 23, of Huron, and Douglas D. Squire, 33, of Grand Rapids, Mich., suffered cuts and bruises when a car driven by L. E. Enderle, 21, of Huron, crashed

Deerpfield, at 12:30 a. m. today, the patrol said.Hunting In City

the city limits was sounded today by Police Chief Ralph Stoffer.He said that numerous com-shot rabbits as they fled from a brush fire in the west end of the city yesterday.

Frey Convicted

HAMILTON, Nov. 11.—Louis Frey, 27, today faced a manslaughter conviction in the fatal shooting last July of Lawrence Linn, 18-year-old taxicab driver, following an argument over cab fare. A jury of eight women and four men deliberated two hours on the verdict, after hearing Prosecutor Paul A. Baden demand the death penalty for Frey.In his testimony, Frey admitted shooting Linn, but said he had been drinking.NETHERLANDS

DECIDES ON STANDCalls On Germany to Investigate Shooting On Border

(By Associated Press)

AMSTERDAM, Nov. 11. — The Netherlands and Belgium, squeezed between warring powers and the sea, prepared today for any eventuality.Indicative of their forebodings were the following developments:
The Belgian cabinet, in a night session, was told by observers to have decided its stand should the Netherlands be attacked.It was reported that the Belgian frontier would be closed if Germany took any action against The Netherlands.The United States consulate said it would advise Americans today to remove their wives and "indispensable" staff members from The Netherlands.

Correspondents Warned

Foreign correspondents were warned by authorized sources at The Hague to limit their dispatches on defenses to material appearing in Netherlands papers.The government planned to request a German investigation of Thursday night's border incident, in which one or two persons were reported shot on Netherlands soil and carried, with several others, in to Germany by occupants of a German automobile.Military measures, not officially explained, continued in both Belgium and The Netherlands. Belgium's mobilization was at a near-high of 620,000, while sections of The Netherlands' defensive water system were flooded.The Belgian cabinet meeting, the fourth in as many days, was followed by a long conference among Prime Minister Hubert Pierlot, Foreign Minister Paul Henri Spaak and Defense Minister Henri Denis.Belgium, with men concentrated in the blockhouses and at the mined bridges along the Albert canal, announced the reopening of some canals in the north, between the Ar-bert and The Netherlands frontier.This was taken as a pacific gesture, since these canals form a direct route to Germany.

Apprehension Grows

Apprehensions of involvement have grown in both the low countries since the first of the week, when the German press assailed them for not protesting actions of the British blockade.These attacks ceased when King Leopold of the Belgians and Queen Wilhelmina of the Netherlands proposed Monday to mediate the struggle between Germany and France and Britain.But the cool reception of this offer, coupled with reports of German military activity near the border, including troop concentrations, has been followed by increasing preparedness for whatever the future may bring.Demands Value for Defense DollarsWASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—Congress may ask the army and navy to demonstrate that they are getting full value out of defense dollars, some legislators said today after a disclosure that the navy had had to correct structural defects in its newest class of destroyers.Senator Norris (Ind., Neb.), who only recently reversed a lifetime habit of voting against "big navy" appropriations, said he thought that appropriation requests should be examined minutely to determine that there was no wastage in defense expenditures."We certainly can't afford to waste any money now and I don't believe the need for construction speed is so great that we can't have a check on these things," he added.Senators Smith (D., S. C.) and Holt (D., W. Va.) said they thought that the navy committee, of which they are members, would want to have full details on construction problems before approving any additional authorizations for expanding the fleet.

PEACE IS ASKEDPope Pius Appeals for Application of Christian Spirit

(By Associated Press)

VATICAN CITY, Nov. 11.—Pope Pius XII, in a special encyclical, today appealed for the application of the "Christian Spirit" toward solution of the conflict of capital and labor in the United States.The encyclical was addressed to bishops of the United States on the 150th anniversary of the founding of the Catholic hierarchy in that country.The pontiff said solution of the social question would "bring great honor to the American people."

Lists Modern Evils

The epistle of more than 5,000 words also called attention to modern "evils" which arose from "Ignorance of God, disregard for his commandments or their imperfect observance."These evils, the pontiff declared, are "exaggerated egoism, thirst for pleasure, immodesty in dress and for power, hungering after riches, neglect of the poor, breaking down of family life, levity in regard to marriage, birth control and neglect of duty to one's country."Pope Pius declared he was grieved that in so many schools in the United States the "Christian religion is ignored and human knowledge confined within the cramped limits of rationalism and naturalism."This could not continue without dread consequences, he added.
Of supreme importance in his mind, the pontiff asserted, is the social question, "which even in America is the cause of disturbance and unrest."Urges Sufficient Salaries
The pontiff urged that salaries of working men be sufficient to maintain them and their families, and that something be done to provide greater employment.The principles of Christian ethics must be generously reduced to practice, the pope said, if the conflict between capital and labor, between rich and poor, is to be solved in justice and charity.Poverty accepted in true Christian spirit is holy and honorable, he asserted.

"Real Prosperity"

Seen by Economists

COLUMBUS, Nov. 11.—Business research statisticians attending their second annual state conference heard a Washington economist declare last night that "the United States will have a period of real prosperity during the next two or three years."Dr. David Friday, who made the prediction, declared the period began shortly before Europe's current war and would continue despite the conflict. "All it (the war) did was give it a boost," he said."Efficiency of management and high standards of business," he asserted, "are bringing industrial prosperity back."The conference on the Ohio State university campus concluded accident occurred at 5 p. m., at a time when the high winds in the vicinity reached gale proportions.The other boy escaped unhurt.

D. M. Allison, a dairyman living nearby, took the boy to Alliance dead upon arrival. His head had been crushed.John Charles Somers was a pupil in the Union Grove school. Besides his parents, he is survived by his men were pretty well worn out when they got through running back and forth across the tract.At one time the flames set fire to Shubert's barn at the west end of Eighth st., and were extinguished.

Several fences in the vicinity were burned.At 1:30 another group of firemen responded to a call to extinguish a grass fire near the corner of N.

going to the West End fire.The department was called at

RED CROSS CALLS AGAIN

Work of the American Red Cross is so diversified that seldom is there a dull period in the activities of this mercy organization. Born of war necessity, it has become one of the greatest agencies in peace time. By extending its hand to suffering humanity in times of floods, hurricanes, tornadoes, fires and countless other disasters it has quickly alleviated resulting privations and sufferings, reclaimed homes and in many cases entire communities, and given new hope and new life to thousands of victims of great disasters.

But the work of the Red Cross is not confined to major catastrophes and emergencies. Witness, for example, the constructive endeavors of Salem chapter week in and week out in a great social service program which forms a major part of relief work done in this community and in surrounding communities. In the broad scope of its work, this chapter provides clothing, food, medicine, hospitalization, lessons in home hygiene and care of the sick, life saving instructions, first aid, veterans relief, nursing. It serves as a clearing house for Christmas cheer that goes out to needy families and in many other ways serves this community as does no other organization.

As its field of endeavor has been expanding to meet the exigencies of a growing community and its environments, it has needed the support of more members from year to year. Willingly has this been given.

Today Salem chapter again calls for that generous support as it opens its annual Roll Call for members for the coming year. With increasing demands upon its time and resources to take care of Salem's problems, it also hears, as a component part of the great national Red Cross, the call for its share of help for war sufferers abroad.

Salem people never have turned a deaf ear to such pleadings. This year they surely will respond more generously than ever with hundreds of memberships so that the mercy program can be carried on unhampered during the coming year.

PURELY CIRCUMSTANTIAL

Suspicion that the Munich beer hall explosion which "almost" killed Adolf Hitler wasn't a total surprise to the German propaganda ministry is based on purely circumstantial evidence.

In 1933, the reichstag building was burned to the ground, Nazis convicted and executed a half-witted Dutch Communist for the crime, then proceeded to convict the entire Communist party of Germany.

In 1934, Capt. Ernst Roehm was suspected of treason and executed. Also executed in a general blood purge, were all the dangerous opponents of the Nazi leaders sympathetic with Hitler.

In 1939, a Jewish youth in Paris shot and killed a minor Nazi official of the embassy staff and Nazis promptly convicted all Jews in Germany of the crime. Previously, they had convicted Jews of causing Germany to lose the World War.

It remains to be seen what use will be made of the beer hall explosion. If none at all is made, then it will be easier to believe the propaganda ministry was just as surprised as the minor officials who got buried in the debris.

MODUS OPERANDI

Sea lawyers, accustomed to navigating among the shoals of international complications, have ship registry laws down pat. But the trick of changing registry to get around provisions of the new neutrality law takes a little explaining for landlubbers.

According to the closest available salt water expert, it works like this: Vessels are subject to the laws and jurisdiction of the country under whose name they're registered and in most cases must be owned by individuals or corporations of the country. Therefore, to be registered by Panama, U. S. ships flying the Panama flag probably will be sold to Panama corporations whose stock will be owned largely by Americans. Thereafter, if they get into trouble Panama and the owners will be the joint goats, instead of the United States and the owners.

Since Panama has no navy to settle its troubles, the owners will be taking the big chance. That's as it should be, provided only that Panama doesn't start appealing to the United States navy for help and the United States navy doesn't try to get helpful.

SPECIAL PREMIUM OF $3,000,000,000

Increased risk has boosted the premium on national defense insurance a flat $3,000,000,000—the estimated cost of the army and navy expansion program. This will be added to the basic cost of defense, which has been running a little more than a billion a year.

Experts say this provides reasonable protection for the United States, and the clients have little choice but to take their word for it. In the meantime they must reflect sadly that Europe's war is costing them almost as much as though they were in it.

Metzger, the toastmaster, introduced Congressman Frank Murphy, the principal speaker. Captain John McSweeney of Wooster was also a speaker. Brief remarks were made by Rev. Father Manning, Superintendent J. S. Alan and Dr. C. L. Smith.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Frederick of Leetonia and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Bradley of West Pershing ave. are the parents of sons, the hospital reports.

THE STARS SAY:

For Sunday, November 12

SUNDAY'S horoscope is a particularly propitious one for all matters of church and state, with much progress in philanthropic and educational lines. There also are deep metaphysical trends, with plans for group solidarity and brotherhood succeeding. Social functions are to the fore, with happy, intriguing angles.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a productive and pleasant year, which holds promise of attaining high goals in both social and business. Aside from rich fulfillments of personal ambitions, there may be gratifying developments in advancing group interests or fraternal ideals. Make changes with proper precaution but do not fear innovation. A child born on this day may be very active and ambitious, with expansive and generous impulses pushing it to high levels in prestige and power. Social, cultural and humanitarian trends may further such attainment, culminating in conspicuous public recognition.

For Monday, November 13

MONDAY'S astrological forecast is for an extremely lively and interesting state of affairs, with business, employment and other ambitious projects under fine impetus. This state of affairs may come from innovation, unique methods and audacious moves, even in speculative and risky chances, where timidity and lack of initiative are swept aside.

Those whose birthday it is may prepare for a lively year. There may be much initiative and audacity, with highly-stimulated forces and faculties. These may operate in the field of chance, where speculation or hazard may prove profitable. Superiors, promoters and employers may be ready to assist when ideas hold novelty or originality.

A child born on this day may be versatile, quick, energetic and have the courage to step out of old ruts and abolish worn-out traditions in business and cultural and social relations.

ARMISTICE DAY

COLUMBUS, Nov. 11.—Twenty-one years ago today Lowell R. Hollingshead lay in a French military hospital, his young body wracked with pain from four machine gun bullet wounds suffered in an heroic attempt to bring aid to the famous "Lost Battalion" in Argonne forest.

Today he policed a cell block in Ohio penitentiary—and liked it.

How about excitement? "There hasn't been much here, at least not yet," he observed with a slow grin. "But war's no good. I'd rather be where I am."

He spoke quietly of the World war nightmare when approximately 600 advancing American soldiers of the 77th division were surrounded by the enemy for five days in October, 1918.

For four days attempts to communicate with the main body of the allied army had failed. There was no food. Water could be obtained only from an unprotected stream, at great risk of life. Rain fell daily and the men had no shelter other than trees and shallow ditches.

On the fifth day, Hollingshead was dispatched in a detail of eight men to attempt a penetration of enemy lines to the rear. The group had advanced only a short distance when German machine gun fire killed four outright and wounded the others.

The survivors were taken prisoner and given first aid treatment. When the wounded refused to betray the position of their division, Hollingshead—the only survivor able to walk—was dispatched to the surrounded camp with a note demanding unconditional surrender.

"Our commander, Major Charles Whittlesey, made no formal reply to that note, but I'm told his answer was that the Barches could go to hell," smiled Hollingshead.

"I don't remember much after that. Some time that night relief forces moved up to our rescue. I was awakened some time before dawn. One man was pouring hot coffee down my neck—and I mean my neck—and another was busy with bandages. My three wounded comrades were left behind by the routed Germans, and picked up by the relief forces."

"At that I was lucky. We went in about 600 strong, and only 237 came out alive."

Hollingshead, now 40 years old, still bears himself with military erectness. He became a penitentiary employee last July, after 14 years of clerical work for a railroad company.

Appendicitis Pain Not Always Felt In One Spot

BY LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

IF YOU were to ask a selected group of more than good education—a meeting of engineers, or a faculty of school teachers, or a select circle of "physicians' wives"—what were the symptoms of appendicitis, the odds are that the consensus of opinion would be "Sudden pain low down on the right side of the abdomen."

Every doctor has heard the explanation of why a case of appendicitis has been allowed to drift so long. "Right away I thought of appendicitis, but the pain wasn't on

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

my right side, so I know it couldn't be that," or "I made sure I didn't have any pain on my right side before I gave myself the cathartic."

I take, with complete accord, the statement of Dr. Joseph Nash, of New York.

In Middle of Abdomen
"It should be printed in every newspaper in the United States that the pain in acute appendicitis is in the middle of the abdomen."

The point that Dr. Nash was making is that in spite of the attempts made to educate the public on acute appendicitis, surgeons constantly are called to see an advanced condition of shock and sepsis from a ruptured appendix.

Education of the public has not diminished the death rate of appendicitis at all.

Most everyone still takes a cathartic whenever there is abdominal pain, and people still dread to have the word "appendicitis" pronounced over them, and keep putting off calling the doctor until the inevitable processes of Nature have progressed so far that it is imperative.

I have warned over and over again in this column about the danger of appendicitis. I have never made the statement that Dr. Nash ascribes to some medical journalists, that the symptoms of appendicitis manifest themselves by pain on the right side. On the contrary, I have always said that in the presence of any pain between the ribs and the legs there is a possibility of appendicitis and, anyway, never take a cathartic for any pain, no matter where it is.

Taking a cathartic is an amateur stunt—any corner druggist can advise you to do that, just because it is an easy way of stopping you from telling any more about your troubles.

Education of the public about appendicitis applies to the most important two factors responsible for the death rate of that disease: one is the use of cathartics, self-administered for acute abdominal pain, and the other is delay in di-agnosis due to the patient's certainty that his abdominal pain is trivial.

Questions and Answers.
T. E. T.: I have been suffering from a very stubborn case of neuritis for the past eight months. So far have not found the cause for it. Is it possible to be poisoned by using aluminum cooking utensils?

Answer: No. The use of aluminum cooking utensils is harmless. The neuritis is probably due to an infection in the teeth, tonsils or other organs.

Mrs. R.: "Please write an article on mineral oil, its benefits if any, or if it is harmful in any way."

Answer: Mineral oil, or liquid petrolatum, is classified as a bulk-producing cathartic. Of the cathartics there are two varieties—the bland and the rough; the bland, mineral oil, agar, tragacanth and cellulose; the rough, psyllium seed and flax seed. None of them has any direct stimulating effect on the intestine except as any non-absorbed, bulky substance has such an effect. Mineral oil does not become rancid and is not absorbed in the alimentary tract. It softens and increases the fecal bulk so that expulsion is easier. It can do no harm. And, as a matter of fact, in most cases it is the cathartic of choice. The dose is two to four teaspoons at bedtime.

TRADE BOOM IN SASKATCHEWAN

Farmers Reap Best Harvest In Years; Go On Buying Splurge

REGINA, Sask.—Their best harvest in a decade now reaped, Saskatchewan's farmers are indulging in one of the biggest buying splurges since 1930.

For years thousands of them have been on relief. But 1939 brought the great majority of Saskatchewan's farm population more than 80 per cent of the total rehabilitation in cash and spirit.

Prospects for the next year are bright. Saskatchewan is the main and the importance of the agricultural province of Canada in the production of foods for the warring allies cannot be overestimated.

Agricultural prices are on the rise, too.

Record Crops

The 1939 wheat crop of an estimated 230,000,000 bushels of which 200,000,000 likely will be sold into commercial channels, was the best yield the province has enjoyed since the bumper crop of 1928. It means an income of $100,000,000, or approximately $40,000,000—more than the harvest of 1938 brought.

It is estimated that other agricultural produce such as coarse grains, livestock, dairy produce, poultry produce, and wool will net a total income of 1939 of between $55,000,000 and $99,000,000.

The total income for all agricultural produce, including wheat, thus, will approximate $200,000,000.

Farmers are using their cash for purchases of everything from automobiles to calico and are paying their back debts as well. Saskatchewan cities haven't known such a business boom since 1930. Regina bank clearings for the first week of October, for instance, totalled $15,000,000, just double that of 1938.

WASHINGTON—Purchase of diamonds shows an upward trend. The importation of diamonds, both cut and uncut for the first five months of 1939 totalled $18,801,342, according to a Department of Commerce report.

PASADENA, Cal.—There is one dog that probably will never take a show prize unless it is for inferiority complex and speed. The dog is Su Lin, a Chow. Scheduled for a first appearance at the Junior League dog show, Su Lin took just one look at the other dogs, then at the thousands of spectators, slipped his leash, ran through a gate and hasn't been seen since.

RED CROSS CALLS AGAIN

Work of the American Red Cross is so diversified that seldom is there a dull period in the activities of this mercy organization. Born of war necessity, it has become one of the greatest agencies in peace time. By extending its hand to suffering humanity in times of floods, hurricanes, tornadoes, fires and countless other disasters it has quickly alleviated resulting privations and sufferings, reclaimed homes and in many cases entire communities, and given new hope and new life to thousands of victims of great disasters.

But the work of the Red Cross is not confined to major catastrophes and emergencies. Witness, for example, the constructive endeavors of Salem chapter week in and week out in a great social service program which forms a major part of relief work done in this community and in surrounding communities. In the broad scope of its work, this chapter provides clothing, food, medicine, hospitalization, lessons in home hygiene and care of the sick, life saving instructions, first aid, veterans relief, nursing. It serves as a clearing house for Christmas cheer that goes out to needy families and in many other ways serves this community as does no other organization.

As its field of endeavor has been expanding to meet the exigencies of a growing community and its environments, it has needed the support of more members from year to year. Willingly has this been given.

Today Salem chapter again calls for that generous support as it opens its annual Roll Call for members for the coming year. With increasing demands upon its time and resources to take care of Salem's problems, it also hears, as a component part of the great national Red Cross, the call for its share of help for war sufferers abroad.

Salem people never have turned a deaf ear to such pleadings. This year they surely will respond more generously than ever with hundreds of memberships so that the mercy program can be carried on unhampered during the coming year.

PURELY CIRCUMSTANTIAL

Suspicion that the Munich beer hall explosion which "almost" killed Adolf Hitler wasn't a total surprise to the German propaganda ministry is based on purely circumstantial evidence.

In 1933, the reichstag building was burned to the ground, Nazis convicted and executed a half-witted Dutch Communist for the crime, then proceeded to convict the entire Communist party of Germany.

In 1934, Capt. Ernst Rohm was suspected of treason and executed. Also executed, in a general blood purge, were all the dangerous opponents of the Nazi leaders sympathetic with Hitler.

In 1939, a Jewish youth in Paris shot and killed a minor Nazi official of the embassy staff and Nazis promptly convicted all Jews in Germany of the crime. Previously, they had convicted Jews of causing Germany to lose the World war.

It remains to be seen what use will be made of the beer hall explosion. If none at all is made, then it will be easier to believe the propaganda ministry was just as surprised as the minor officials who got buried in the debris.

MODUS OPERANDI

Sea lawyers, accustomed to navigating among the shoals of international complications, have ship registry laws down pat. But the trick of changing registry to get around provisions of the new neutrality law takes a little explaining for landlubbers.

According to the closest available salt water expert, it works like this: Vessels are subject to the laws and jurisdiction of the country under whose name they're registered and in most cases must be owned by individuals or corporations of the country. Therefore, to be registered by Panama, U. S. ships flying the Panama flag probably will be sold to Panama corporations whose stock will be owned largely by Americans. Thereafter, if they get into trouble Panama and the owners will be the joint goats, instead of the United States and the owners.

Since Panama has no navy to settle its troubles, the owners will be taking the big chance. That's as it should be, provided only that Panama doesn't start appealing to the United States navy for help and the United States navy doesn't try to get helpful.

Increased risk has boosted the premium on national defense insurance a flat $3,000,000,000—the estimated cost of the army and navy expansion program. This will be added to the basic cost of defense, which has been running a little more than a billion a year.

Experts say this provides reasonable protection for the United States, and the clients have little choice but to take their word for it. In the meantime they must reflect sadly that Europe's war is costing them almost as much as though they were in it.

It is estimated that other agricultural produce such as coarse grains, livestock, dairy produce, poultry produce, and wool will net a total income of 1939 of between $65,000,000 and $90,000,000.

The total income for all agricultural produce, including wheat, thus will approximate $200,000,000.

Farmers are using their cash for purchases of everything from automobiles to calico and are paying their back debts as well. Saskatchewan cities haven't known such a business boom since 1930. WASHINGTON — Purchase of diamonds shows an upward trend. The importation of diamonds, both cut and uncut, for the first five months of 1939 totalled $18,801,342, according to a Department of Commerce report.

PASADENA, Cal.—There is one dog that probably will never take a show prize unless it is for inferiority complex and speed. The dog is Su Lin, a Chow. Scheduled for a first appearance at the Junior League dog show, Su Lin took just one look at the other dogs, then at the thousands of spectators, slipped his leash, ran through a gate and hasn't been seen since.

Christian Science Services Sunday

"Mortals and Immortals" is the subject of the lesson-sermon which will be read at the morning worship of the Christian Science society tomorrow.

Sunday school for pupils up to 29 years of age is held at 9:30 a. m. The midweek service will be held the first Wednesday of each month at 8 p. m. in the church.

The Golden Text is: "Henceforth know we no man as the flesh." (I Corinthians 15:16.)

Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "The secret things belong unto the Lord our God; but those things which are revealed belong unto us and to our children for ever, that we may do all the words of this law" (Deuteronomy 29:29).

The lesson-sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Mortals must look beyond fading, finite forms, if they would gain the true sense of things. Where shall the gaze rest but in the unsearchable realm of mind? We must look where we would walk, and we must act as possessing all power from Him in whom we have our being" (p. 264).

The society maintains a reading room at 135 S. Broadway, where the Bible and all authorized Christian Science literature may be read or borrowed. The room is open daily, except Saturday, from 1:30 to 4 p. m., and Saturday from 7 to 9 p. m.

he said, and wealth carries with it heavy responsibilities because of its obligations to the poor.

"It may be brought about that each and every able bodied man may receive equal opportunity for work in order to earn daily bread for himself and his own," the pontiff said. "We deeply lament the fact of those—number in the United States is large indeed—who though robust, capable and willing cannot have work for which they anxiously are searching."

"May the wisdom of governing powers, far seeing generosity on the part of employers together with speedy reestablishment of more favorable conditions effect the realization of these reasonable hopes to the advantage of all."

Approves Capital and Labor Unions

The pope approved unions of laboring men and farmers as well as employers for the protection of their rights, following, however, the dictates of justice.

"It is not possible without injustice to deny or limit either the producers or the laboring and farming classes the free faculty of uniting in associations by means which they may defend their proper rights and secure betterment of goods of the soul and body as well as the honest comforts of life," the encyclical continued.

"The pontiff said such associations should draw their vital force from principles of wholesome 'ethics,' act in such a manner that in their care for the interests of their class they violate no one's rights; let them continue to strive for harmony and respect of the common well of civil society."

"What a proud vaunt it will be for the American people by nature inclined to grandiose undertakings and to liberality," the pope continued, "if they untie the knotty and difficult social question by following sure paths, illuminated by the light of gospel and this lay the basis of a happier age. If it is to come to pass, the power must not be dissipated through disunion but rather strengthened through harmony."

"KNIGHT ERRANT" by Jack McDonald

SYNOPSIS

Heather Mills' world tumbled about her when her father's thoroughbred, "Coronado," breaks his back while running in the Santa Anita Handicap and Dan Mills, the veteran sportsman, succumbs the following day, ostensibly from pneumonia but really from a broken heart. Charley Bassitt, a shady gambler, had taken Coronado to the receiving barn the day of the race. Therefore, gossip was rife regarding Coronado's "accidental" death. Two who had waged all on Coronado and lost were "Slim" (Andrew Branson) Maynard, whose father once owned a string of thoroughbreds, and his friend, "Snapper" Elliott, a typical tout. Slim traveled from track to track, sometimes in the money but more often not. People wondered at the friendship between the cultured Slim and the uncouth Snapper. Heather goes back to her father's Carmel Valley farm where a colt, sired by Coronado, is born. As Heather looked at the ungainly little creature, she visioned great races and a reincarnated Coronado. She named the colt "Knight Errant." In the meantime, Slim and Snapper were doing fairly well at Tanforan. They buy two players, "Susie" and "Cold Cream," for $50. Knight Errant is now a yearling and growing into a beautiful animal. Heather is anxious to race him in the Kentucky Derby, but Artichoke, her stable hand, informs her the horse won't be eligible until three years old. So Heather secretly plans to race him at Santa Anita in January. At Bay Meadows, Slim finally finds what he believes is a spot for his plug, Cold Cream. Snapper had a man waiting for his tip to make a killing. This was the last thought Snapper.

CHAPTER VIII

An hour before the race Snapper had the money he was going to win already counted. But he told himself, he must as well make it a real clean-up. So he called Slim.

"Slim, I can't go anything right now," Slim eyed Snapper suspiciously.

This was Snapper's customary cat-in-the-hat.

"You know, Slim, I went into Paw Met Joe's on Third street this noon and spotted a horse in the eastern entries I been tagging for months, name Morning Mail."

"But there's a daffy guy in the bookies who is a bug on astrology."

"He says don't play Morning Mail, as by all the signs of the Zodiac the time is not propitious to wager on any four-legged animal with a name that starts with M."

"He says wait until Venus crosses the meridian and comes into conjunction with Jupiter and then it will be o.k. I took his bunch as I figure I can't do anything right. Morning Mail wins, paid a limit price and I'm on another horse in the race."

Snapper never ran out of hard luck stories. And the marvel of it was he seemed to think Slim never ran out of money. Slim was now so used to Snapper's method of approach to put on a "touch" that he never had to wait for him to actually clamp it on.

So Slim handed him a twenty from his dwindling bankroll. They were standing under the Bay Meadows grandstand now.

"Put another twenty with this, Slim," advised Snapper, "and we'll bet it all on Cold Cream's nose."

The pair eyed Charlie Bassitt, standing close by.

"That guy's got rabbit ears," Snapper said, and he and Slim maneuvered down by the other end of the grandstand.

Slim was skeptical about the race. He studied the past performance sheet and asked Snapper, "How about this thing Evening Song?"

"Evening Song? Just a cheap tagline number," assured Snapper.

"Cold Cream is no Beethoven symphony himself," cautioned Slim.

"I'm telling you there ain't a nickel's worth of horses in the race," Snapper argued, sensing that Slim needed a little bolstering.

"Cold Cream included," laughed Slim.

"Right as rain," Snapper agreed, "but his dogs won't bark in the mud, and he ought to walk the beat in a common snort. Remember, Cold Cream's a superior mud-digger."

"How can he be a superior mud-digger?"

"I can explain everything like this—" gasped Snapper.

But the little man picked up a wad of bills that would choke a raffle or Gargantua the gorilla.

"What do you mean, sorry?" do you mean you can explain that sure was a dandy tip. We didn't you let me know it was a hot one? I only bet ten dollars, but I'd have stretched it to a known it was so good. You got more Gold Streams coming up?"

Slim was dumbfounded. Snapper jammed a clenched fist into his ribs and grabbed the proffered hand of the little man.

"Cold Cream! Gold Stream!" began to dawn on Slim.

"I mean, Slim, new name, price wasn't a little better, but never gulped."

"Say I came straight to the bet down," the little man was on happily.

"You told me on the phone that the sixth race I was going to pull a big one and I was lucky I got it. I was enough to go in the other race and take a look at the money."

Found out just in time that Gold Stream was running in the fifth, not the sixth. I had to tell a lady to come back tomorrow and I hurried down to the bookies. Was nearly past time when I bet the bet down."

"They do sound alike, don't they?" Snapper said, and he smiled. Fifth and sixth sound alike.

"Yeah," laughed the little man. He made Snapper pretend to him another good tip like he had from Santa Anita.

"Oh, I can get you a million ones down there," assured Snapper, "particularly since I got a hunch who is a big jockey at Santa Anita."

He promised to wire the little man frequently.

"Cold Cream! Gold Stream!" roared Snapper after the fifth race. The jockey, the little man, walked away. "Eight hundred for Slim! I counted it while he was talking. And to think I was a sucker!"

And he added, "I only gave a show, Slim, there ain't a thing money can't cure."

While the experience with the little dentist amused Slim, he was too sound a reasoner for himself to approve of Snapper's hustling tactics. That wasn't in Slim's line. While scratching around in the turf for a living made it imperative that he not over-look angles, Slim had never played the role of professional tipster, new or old.

But even Slim had to tell himself that Snapper's deal with the little man with the mustache came mighty handy at the time. They were now free to go on their way to Santa Anita, with pin money to boot.

Nobody was hurt.

"What a proud vaunt it will be for the American people by nature inclined to grandiose undertakings and to liberality," the pope continued, "if they untie the knotty and difficult social question by following sure paths illuminated by the light of gospel and thus lay the basis of a happier age. If this is to come to pass, the power must not be dissipated through disunion but rather strengthened through harmony."

der or a superior anything when he has never won a race in his life?" argued Slim.

The horses were nearing the starting gate and the pair went down by the rail to watch the race. Their coat collars turned up, they stood huddled in the corner in the lee of the judges' stand, where the rain wouldn't beat down on them.

"Cold Cream beat the gate by a full length," chirped Snapper. "Hot zam! We're Santa Anita bound, and as good as in Watsonville right now."

At the half, Cold Cream was in front by three lengths, widening on the field, and, to all appearances, running easily.

Okeh to Santa Barbara, and highballing right through," yelled Snapper, reaching up to smack Slim on the shoulder.

As they rounded into the stretch, Snapper felt his rooting pipes cracking under the strain when Cold Cream raced a bit wide. But she straightened out when she hit the stretch and, through the driving rain, Snapper could see her still in front.

Snapper managed to let out one more war whoop: "Glendale, and right on time!"

FRIEND to HUMANITY—IN PEACE or WAR

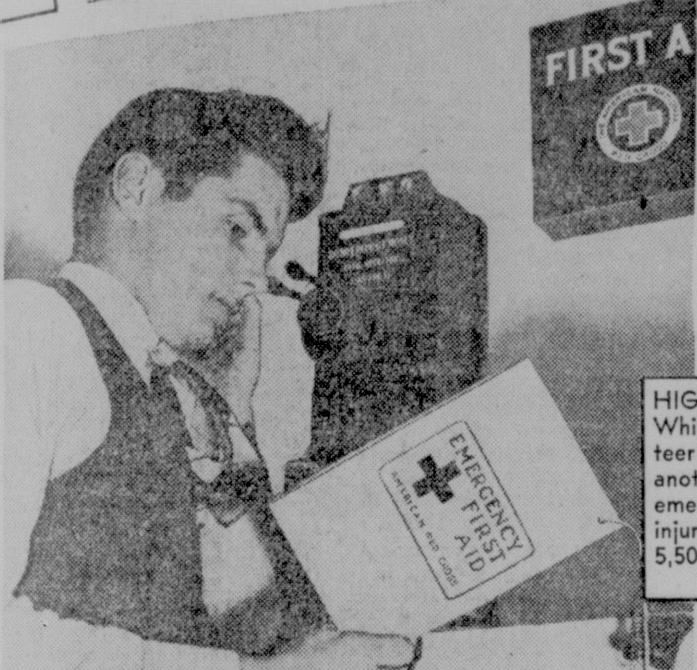

In addition to its help to war-torn Europe, the American Red Cross is facing one of its busiest years in meeting the needs of the disaster-stricken while it carries on a daily fight against accidental death, disease and other forms of human distress

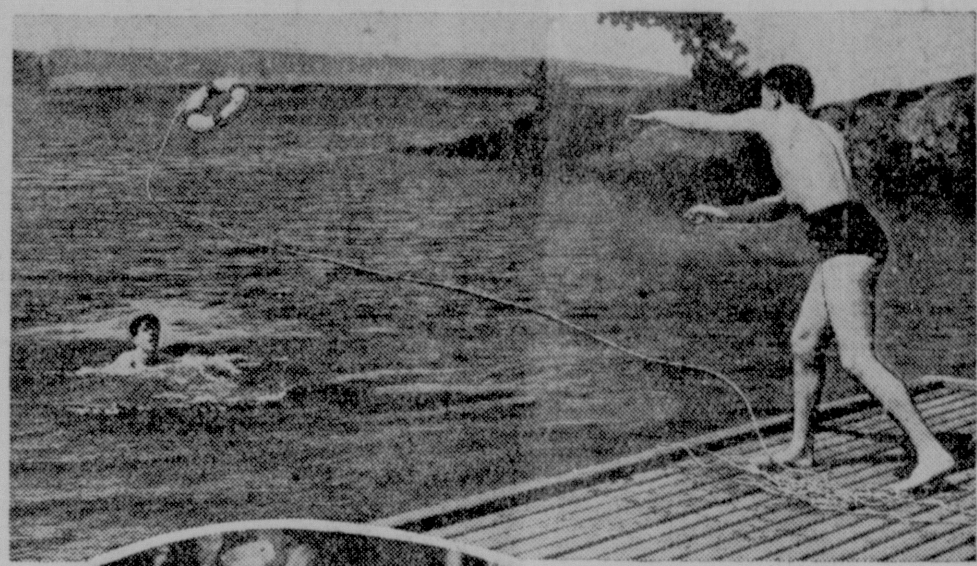

DISASTER STRIKES—Last year disaster, similar to this, occurred 156 times in the United States, calling for Red Cross emergency and rehabilitation assistance to 130,000 persons.

THE THREAT OF EPIDEMIC—This youngster doesn't like the idea of inoculation, but in later years he will thank the Red Cross for its program of fighting the spread of communicable disease in the nation.

HIGHWAY FIRST AID—While this Red Cross volunteer phones for a physician another First Aider gives emergency treatment to an injured motorist. There are 5,500 emergency stations in the United States.

WATER SAFETY—Accidental drowning each year claims approximately 7,500 lives. During the past summer, the Red Cross certificated its millionth Life Saver.

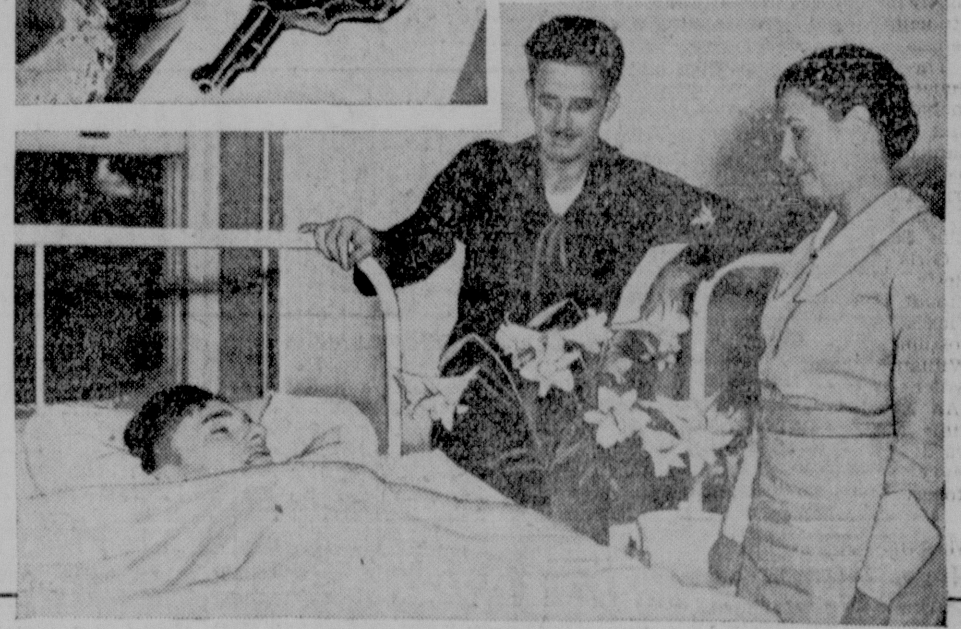

ACCIDENTS IN THE HOME—Hazards in the home such as the one pictured here claim as many lives as automobile accidents. Red Cross accident prevention programs annually reach ten million homes.

FRIENDSHIP BETWEEN NATIONS—These Red Cross Juniors are part of an army of 7,500,000 young Americans carrying on a program of international correspondence to create a better understanding between nations.

TO BIND THE WOUNDS OF WAR—With war in Europe thousands of Red Cross volunteers (left) throughout the country are preparing surgical dressings and refugee clothing, that needs of the injured may be met. Emergency closets of supplies are held in readiness for domestic calamities.

AID TO VETERANS AND SERVICE MEN—Scenes like this occur daily in military hospitals as Red Cross workers speed the recovery of the disabled veteran and aid men in active service and their dependents in solving their social and economic problems.

G-MEN RE-OPEN ARIZONA OFFICE

Federal Agents Apparently Seeking Safety In Western Area

PHOENIX, Ariz. — A growing influx of criminals apparently seeking safety in Arizona's "wide open spaces" has prompted the Federal Bureau of Investigation to re-open its Arizona office, closed two years ago in an economy drive. Although FBI agents admitted the reopening was caused by an "increased volume of business," they maintained the utmost secrecy on the nature of the business.

Two theories stand out, however, both of which local authorities believe may have caused the FBI to reestablish headquarters here. Fugitive Haven The first attributes the opening of the office to increased investigation by the federal government of Nazi activities in the Pacific Coast. It is held significant that the announcement of resuming operations here came shortly after Attorney General Frank Murphy disclosed that federal agencies would begin a drive on "subversive" activities.

The second theory, and that most generally accepted, is that the growing numbers of fugitives apprehended in Arizona led the FBI to station permanent men in this state. Both J. Edgar Hoover, FBI chief, and local agents admit this is one of the reasons why their activity here has been resumed. Arizona long has been regarded as an ideal place for fugitives "to hide out." Vast stretches of virtually uncharted and unexplored desert regions are havens for the fugitive desperado, and Mexico reaches invitingly to the south. In the last two months, at least three men have been arrested here in connection with major crimes in other states.

COLUMBUS, S. C. — A young woman, arrested for driving past a red light, said she had done so because she was preoccupied with an excellent sermon she'd just heard. The judge asked the subject, She answered: "The handwriting on the wall." Case was dismissed.

PHILADELPHIA — Two holdup men, commanded Benjamin Gitter's automobile, drove him five miles into the country, took $40 from him and decommisioned the car. Leaving him, however, they tossed him 15 cents for carfare back to the city.

Few Outstanding College Football Titles At Stake Today

HOWEVER, GOOD GAMES ARE ON DAY'S PROGRAM

Outstanding Tilts Are Found In All Sections Of Nation

(By Associated Press)
NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—This may not be the biggest Saturday of the football season, mostly because the make-or-break games of the sectional championship races aren't on the program, but it would be hard to make up a better national list of the outstanding games from each section.

The list would include, say, Pitt-Carnegie Tech, Missouri-New York university and Dartmouth-Princeton in the east, Alabama-Tulane and Kentucky-Georgia Tech in the south, Notre Dame-Iowa and Michigan-Minnesota in the mid-west, Texas Aggies-Southern Methodist and Texas-Baylor in the southwest and Michigan State-Santa Clara and Oregon State-Oregon on the Pacific coast. That, of course, wouldn't take in all the best teams, but the ones that win will HAVE TO BE GOOD.

Aggies Vs. Mustangs
That battle for Southwest conference laurels between Texas A. and M. and the Southern Methodist Mustangs probably is tops if you have to pick out one contest.

Tulane, Kentucky and Georgia Tech are tied for runner-up honors in the Southeastern conference behind the mighty Tennessee outfit.

The eastern leaders, Cornell and Duquesne, don't have anything but upsets to fear against Colgate and North Carolina state if the records mean anything, and the best games likely will turn out to be Pitt vs. Carnegie Tech, the clash between tied but unbeaten Dartmouth and once-defeated Princeton, and the intersectional struggle between two fine passing teams, Missouri and New York university.

Iowa, with Nile Kinnick, hopes to knock Notre Dame off its unbeaten perch. Michigan, last week's upset victim, and Minnesota, winner of only one game so far, hope to redeem themselves in this annual struggle. Ohio State figures to hold its Big Ten lead easily against Chicago and Oklahoma is favored to take Kansas State and the Missouri for the Big Six lead.

On Pacific Coast
Southern California, sharing the Pacific Coast conference lead with U. C. L. A., is rated far above Stanford, the traditional rival it meets today while the Uclans are idle. Oregon and Oregon State, meanwhile, are tied for the runner-up spot.

Wyoming, last-place club of the Rocky Mountain Big Seven, took a 39-6 drubbing from St. Louis university, member of the Missouri Valley conference, last night. In other important Friday contests, Virginia conquered Washington & Lee, 7-0, on a fourth-period drive, and Miami of Florida routed another Missouri Valley foe, Iowa State, 33-6, as Terry Fox led a crushing attack. Two unbeaten and untied small schools, Maryville (Mo.) Teachers and De Sales, beat Kirkville, 19-13, and Grand Rapids (Mich.) college, 26-0, respectively.

WALTERS LOOKS TO NEXT YEAR

Bucky Hopes To Win 30 Games In 1940 Baseball Season

(By Associated Press)
PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 11.—A 30-game winner—that's what Bucky Walters hopes to be next year.

The converted third baseman, whose feat of winning 27 games on the pitching mound for the pennant-winning Cincinnati Reds won him the National League "most valuable player" award, spoke today of his hopes for 1940.

"I'm going to try and win them all," declared the 29-year-old right hander, who makes his home in Philadelphia during the off season.

"I'm pitching the same way with the Reds I did with the Phillies," Bucky continued modestly. "I've got a better team behind me, that's all."

"Of course I pitch to the batter's weakness. I try to get the ball where they hit it softest. I don't try for a knockout except maybe when I'm in a jam."

"But don't forget once you're out there on the mound you're in the laps of the gods. Sometimes you can't get anyone out."

As for the World Series, Bucky just laughs.

"I still think Joe DiMaggio must have cut across from first to third," he says of that incident in the fourth and last game when DiMaggio scored all the way from first while Ernie Lombardi, Reds' catcher, lay prone on the ground with the ball only a few feet away.

Bucky is taking things easy now, but plans to play handball a lot after the first of the year.

And, oh yes, he used his loser's share of slightly more than $4,000 from the World Series to finish paying for his Philadelphia home.

Salem, Alliance Poloists Clash At Equestrian

Members of the Salem Polo club will clash with Alliance, another member of the Penn-Ohio outdoor polo league when the equestrian club at Cleveland opens its indoor circuit tonight.

They will be the first on the program, with the Cleveland Riding club and the Rangers colliding in the nighttime.

Special opening night ceremonies will feature the Mounted troop of the Cleveland police department.

Few Outstanding College Football Titles At Stake Today

HOWEVER, GOOD GAMES ARE ON DAY'S PROGRAM

Outstanding Tilts Are Found In All Sections Of Nation

(By Associated Press)
NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—This may not be the biggest Saturday of the football season, mostly because the make-or-break games of the sectional championship races aren't on the program, but it would be hard to make up a better national list that you'd find by taking a couple of the outstanding games from each section.

The list would include, say, Pitt-Carnegie Tech, Missouri-New York university and Dartmouth-Princeton in the east, Alabama-Tulane and Kentucky-Georgia Tech in the south, Notre Dame-Iowa and Michigan-Minnesota in the mid-west, Texas Aggies-Southern Methodist and Texas-Baylor in the southwest and Michigan State-Santa Clara and Oregon State-Oregon in the Pacific coast. That, of course, wouldn't take in all the best teams, but the ones that will have TO BE GOOD.

Aggies Vs. Mustangs
That battle for Southwest conference laurels between Texas A. and M. and the Southern Methodist Mustangs probably is tops if you have to pick out one contest.

Tulane, Kentucky and Georgia Tech are tied for runner-up honors in the Southeastern conference behind the mighty Tennessee outfit.

The eastern leaders, Cornell and Duquesne, don't have anything but upsets to fear against Colgate and North Carolina state if the records mean anything, and the best games likely will turn out to be Pitt vs. Carnegie Tech, the clash between tied but unbeaten Dartmouth and once-defeated Princeton, and the intersectional struggle between two fine passing teams, Missouri and New York university.

Iowa, with Nile Kinnick, hopes to knock Notre Dame off its unbeaten perch. Michigan, last week's upset victim, and Minnesota, winner of only one game so far, hope to redeem themselves in this annual struggle. Ohio State figures to hold its Big Ten lead easily against Chicago and Oklahoma is favored to take Kansas State and the Missouri for the Big Six lead.

On Pacific Coast
Southern California, sharing the Pacific Coast conference lead with U. C. L. A., is rated far above Stanford, the traditional rival it meets today while the Uclairs are idle. Oregon and Oregon State, meanwhile, are tied for the runner-up spot.

Wyoming, last-place club of the Rocky Mountain Big Seven, took a 29-6 drubbing from St. Louis university, member of the Missouri Valley conference, last night. In other important Friday contests, Virginia conquered Washington & Lee, 7-0, on a fourth-period drive, and Miami of Florida routed another Missouri Valley loop team, Drake, 33-6, as Terry Fox led a crushing attack. Two unbeaten and untied small schools, Maryville (Mo.) Teachers and De Sales, beat Kirtsville, 19-13, and Grand Rapids (Mich.) college, 26-0, respectively.

Pimlico Fans Can't Even Pick Starters

BALTIMORE, Nov. 11.—It's hard enough to pick winners in horse races, but the fans at Pimlico today found themselves even trying to pick the starters in the $5,000 Ritchie handicap.

Twenty sprinters were entered overnight in the six-furlong Armistice day feature, with probabilities 15 or less would go to the post. With so many horses to get away from Old Hilltop's new electric starting gate, side bets could have been laid on the scratches.

Sun Egret, despite his disappointing performance in New England, held a narrow margin over the good field in early odds, but the A. C. Compton Color-Bearer had plenty of tough competition, including such horses as Speed to Spare, Airplane, Joe Schenck, Allegre and Slow Motion.

Backing up the feature, another big field—13 overnight nominations—was slated to run in the Armistice cap.

Get Dayton Stars

MONTREAL, Nov. 11.—Catcher Stewart Hofferth and Pitcher Jim Reid of the Dayton, O., Mid-Atlantic league club are two of eight Brooklyn Dodger farmhands who will play with the Montreal Royals of the International Baseball league next season, said President Hector Racine of the Royals today. Racine said some players were purchased and others optioned, but declined to specify how the Dayton players were obtained.

DE SALES ENDS RECORD YEAR

Toledo School Unbeaten, Untied In Its First Season

(By Associated Press)
TOLEDO, Nov. 11.—DeSales college, a 216-student school, balanced the books from its first football season today and found:

The team was unbeaten and untied in its six games;

It scored 123 points, an average of 20 per game, while giving up only one touchdown—that to St. Mary's of Michigan in the opener.

The Toledoans capped the season yesterday with a 26-0 victory over Grand Rapids college in the Michigan city. The Sailors counted in the first period on Bondy's pass to Blackburn and then pushed over three more six pointers in the late half.

DeSales earlier defeated Lawrence Tech (Mich.), 26 to 0; St. Mary's, 44 to 6; Assumption (Ont.), 14 to 0; Evansville (Ind.), 7 to 0; and Ferris Institute, 6 to 0.

In another Ohio game yesterday Tennessee Tech nosed out Youngstown, 7 to 6, in a contest played at Cookeville, Tenn. Congeni scored for the Penguins in the second period, but the extra point try failed. The Golden Eagles won on Hamilton's touchdown and a perfect seventh-point boot by Powell Hutcherson, substitute tackle.

Mr. Roosevelt wrote no address to express his feelings as he visited the national shrine, but in a radio talk last night and another prepared for delivery tonight he appealed for support of the American Red Cross so that it might meet multiplying needs for assistance as the war continued.

We know, however, that as the war continues the suffering will greatly increase and need for assistance will multiply many times."

Mr. Roosevelt strongly urged "everyone who can possibly do so" to join the Red Cross during its annual membership campaign beginning today and ending Nov. 30.

HITLER HONORS BLAST VICTIMS

Deputy Hess Delivers Eulogy; Says "Victory Will Be Ours"

(By Associated Press)

BERLIN, Nov. 11.—Adolf Hitler paid a wreath today on the graves of seven persons killed in a bombing of which he was the intended victim.

While cannons boomed a salute, the fuhrer paid his respects to the "martyrs" of the explosion which last Wednesday wrecked the famous Burgerbrau beer hall where veteran Nazis were celebrating the anniversary of the 1923 putsch.

Flags flew at half mast throughout Germany and the nation observed a "day of sorrow" as a state funeral was held for the victims before the Field Marshal's hall in Munich.

Hess, Delivers Eulogy

Rudolf Hess, deputy leader of the Nazi party, who delivered the eulogy, described the bombing as "one of the most cowardly plots in history."

"The last thought of the victim," Hess said, "was of Adolf Hitler. Their death brought to the full consciousness of the German people that our fuhrer, too, was to have been a victim."

Hitler, who had addressed the gathering in the Burgerbrau hall, left the meeting only 11 minutes before the explosion.

"But the fuhrer lives!" Hess declared. "He has been given to us anew. Tears of joy have been shed all over Germany at this miracle of preservation from harm. Providence will continue to keep the fuhrer for us."

Hess said that "Providence has been with the fuhrer," and added: "Just as the Burgerbrau was rebounded to the fuhrers, so the great crime—namely the war that has been forced upon us—will rebound to his and to many's boon."

"Victory Will Be Ours"

"Germany's victory will bring the enemies of peace who continue to incite the peoples to war. Victory will be ours, thanks to the dead."

When Hess finished his 12-minute eulogy, Hitler approached the coffins, placed wreaths and gave the Nazi salute.

The services came during operations on the war front. The high command issued a communiqué stating that the war was being conducted with "active inactivity. In the rear, there was only minor scouting and artillery activity. One French tank division was brought down to Kolmar by a German plane."

A commission investigating the Burgerbrau explosion, in which 63 persons were injured, announced it had uncovered "positive evidence that parts used in construction of the infernal machine causing the blast were of 'foreign origin'."

HITLER HONORS BLAST VICTIMS

Deputy Hess Delivers Eulogy; Says "Victory
Will Be Ours"

(By Associated Press)

BERLIN, Nov. 11—Adolf Hitler placed a wreath today on the caskets of seven persons killed in a bombing of which he was the intended victim.

While cannons boomed a salute, he further paid his respects to the "martyrs" of the explosion which last Wednesday wrecked the famous Burgerbrau beer hall where veteran Nazis were celebrating the anniversary of the 1923 putsch.

Flags flew at half mast throughout Germany and the nation observed a "day of sorrow" as a state funeral was held for the victims before the Field Marshal's hall in Munich.

Hess, Delivers Eulogy

Rudolf Hess, deputy leader of the Nazi party, who delivered the eulogy, described the bombing as "one of the most dastardly plots in history."

"The last thought of the victims," Hess said, "was of Adolf Hitler. Their death brought to the full consciousness of the German people that our fuhrer, too, was to have been a victim."

Hitler, who had addressed the gathering in the Burgerbrau hall, left the meeting only 11 minutes before the explosion.

"But the fuhrer lives!" Hess declared. "He has been given to us anew. Tears of joy have been shed all over Germany at this miracle of preservation from harm. Providence will continue to keep the fuhrer for us."

Hess said that "Providence" has been with the fuhrer, and added: "Just as the Burgerbrau explosion rebounded to the fuhrer's good, so the great crime—namely the war that has been forced upon us—will rebound to his and Germany's boon."

"Victory Will Be Ours"

"Germany's victory will bring the enemies of peace who continue to incite the peoples to war. Victory will be ours, thanks to the dead."

When Hess finished his 12-minute eulogy, Hitler approached the caskets, placed wreaths on them and gave the Nazi salute.

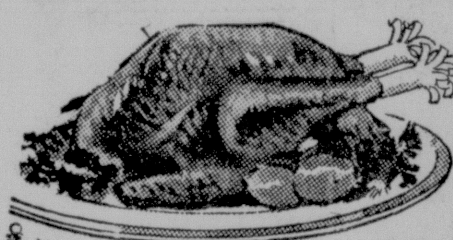

The services came during a lull in operations on the war front. Communiqué issued this morning by the high command said: "The war relapsed into comparative inactivity. In the west there was only minor scouting and artillery activity. One French balloon was brought down by a German plane."

A commission investigating the Burgerbrau explosion, in which 63 persons were injured, announced it had uncovered "positive" evidence that parts used in construction of the infernal machine causing the blast were of "foreign origin."
